

Could You Label Better?

Streamline your labeling environment through centralization of licenses and standardization of products. Efficiency is possible!

Do you use a variety of software for label design?

Consolidate

Do Nothing:

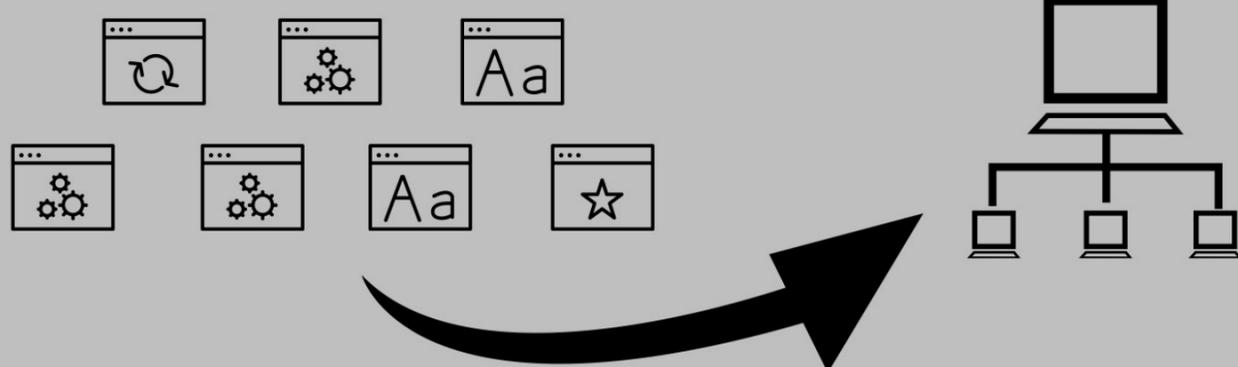

- Label files are not compatible between different software packages, causing frustration and duplication of efforts
- Features are not consistent, causing some users to lose functionality
- Training takes double or triple the time it should, as users learn each different software

Take Action:

- + One label file format, enabling users to easily send and receive labels from anyone in your organization
- + Features are consistent, enabling all users to accomplish the same tasks
- + Train users once, and they can use any label software in the company

Do you have too many single user licenses?

Centralize

Do Nothing:

- Updating each individual single user license is time consuming and difficult
- Licenses may "slip through the cracks," leaving some users on older versions
- Single user subscription licenses may renew at different times throughout the year, making renewals a nightmare to manage

Take Action:

- + Update once on the server and easily roll out to clients
- + One central point of truth for license management
- + One license to renew on the same date every one, three, or five years

Are you managing varying support schedules?

Standardize

Do Nothing:

- Production downtime if renewals are forgotten due to multiple renewal dates
- Handling software subscription renewals more than a few times a year becomes repetitive and frustrating
- Users may take renewal into their own hands, limiting visibility into costs and expenses

Take Action:

- + Renew all licenses at once by working with your vendor to pro-rate
- + Only deal with renewals every one, three, or five years
- + Predict and control software costs with a consistent renewal schedule

Variety may be the spice of life, but it is the enemy of efficiency.
